“The arts have helped sustain us during the pandemic, and it is our turn now to give back to them. The 90 cultural nonprofits supported by the LA Arts Recovery Fund represent diverse communities, artistic innovation, and our shared aspirations for a more equitable and inclusive future.”

Attributable to Wendy Garen, President and CEO, The Ralph M. Parsons Foundation:

“Creativity is one of our region’s greatest assets—it is our secret sauce! Parsons is thrilled to give back to arts and cultural organizations that have contributed so much to our collective wellbeing. We hope this support will provide them with the “lift” they need to reopen, move forward, and thrive.”

Attributable to Kristin Sakoda, Director, Los Angeles County Department of Arts and Culture:

“Now more than ever, our diverse cultural organizations and communities they serve are in need of extra support. The recipients of the LA Arts Recovery Fund grants demonstrate the deep and longstanding significance of the arts in Los Angeles. We hope these nonprofits will thrive.”

Attributable to Elizabeth Alexander, President, The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation:

“The vigorous reach of the LA Arts Recovery Fund has been exhilarating. We remain deeply committed to supporting the many brilliant artists and arts organizations whose contributions—even in the face of a global pandemic—have continued to empower Los Angeles as a dynamic, multicultural city.”

Attributable to Darren Walker, President, Ford Foundation:

“It’s an honor to support the LA Arts Recovery Fund and the arts and cultural organizations that are making an enormous contribution to our civic life. We hope that this support will enable these remarkable organizations to grow and encourage more funders and philanthropies to support the diversity of communities and artistic talents in Los Angeles.”

Attributable to Antonia Hernandez, President and CEO, California Community Foundation:

“We are proud to recognize this esteemed roster of 90 nonprofit grantees, exemplifying the breadth and depth of the arts in Los Angeles. Public and private institutions, community members, and philanthropists have come together to support these organizations in recognition of the diversity, innovation, and collaboration that sets Los Angeles arts apart nationally and worldwide. It is our hope that the LA Arts Recovery Fund will help create a more equitable and inclusive culture sector and serve as a building block toward a more resilient economy and vital future.”
